MEDIA RELEASE

26th November 2008

HO! HO! HO! FATHER CHRISTMAS GOES WITH THE FLOW!

As darkness falls on a winter's night, Father Christmas will be rowed across the Mill Pond at Pakenham Water Mill – offering a present for every child!

On Sunday December 7th, Suffolk's last working water mill is all set to welcome children and their parents with a visit from the man in white and red guaranteed from about 4.30pm onwards.

The Mill and its grounds will actually be open from 3pm onwards with a chance for visitors to explore the Mill, bread making demonstrations in the recently restored Old Kitchen in the Miller's House, a punch bar, tombola and other attractions all on offer.

“2008 has been quite a year for Pakenham Water Mill – not least with the completion of the first phase of our ambitious refurbishment plans. We can't think of a better way for friends and supporters of the Mill as well as the general public to round off a busy and successful 12 months with a Christmas celebration and a visit from Father Christmas!” explained Mill Curator, David Eddershaw.

Admission: £3 for adults, £2.50 for seniors and £1.50 for children.

All children must be accompanied by a responsible adult.
